The Dean’s Notes
Over the past decade, Dean Jack Kristofco and Dean Paulette Popovich have positioned Wayne College as a premier center of learning and engagement, focused on servicing the students and communities of Wayne, Medina, and Holmes Counties. I am honored to join the Wayne College family and to have the opportunity to continue the tradition of service and excellence at Wayne College. Together, the College’s administrative team, faculty, and I will continue to seek new opportunities to offer educational experiences strategically targeted to our students and to explore opportunities to build new community partnerships and collaborations that will support the economic and social vitality of the region.

Within the framework of the strategic goals of The University of Akron’s Vision 2020, Wayne College is uniquely positioned to advance a model of community engagement that focuses on overcoming current and emerging challenges for our students and within our communities, and establishing a culture of distinction throughout the region. This collaborative approach will drive our efforts to engage our neighbors and business partners in supporting the continued growth and prosperity of our communities.

Over the coming weeks and months, we will be exploring opportunities to enhance the scope and reach of Wayne College across northeast Ohio while maintaining our focused commitment to serving the citizens of Wayne, Medina, and Holmes Counties. I am confident that Wayne College can better serve our immediate surrounding communities by more strongly embedding the rising University of Akron brand across all sectors, and by strengthening Wayne College’s collaborative ties to the University’s main campus and emerging extended campuses.

As Wayne College explores the many new opportunities that lay before us, I look forward to working with you, our community partners, to stimulate bold new ideas and build new initiatives focused on enrichment and sustained prosperity. I am confident that through our collaborative efforts and by leveraging our combined strengths, we will be strategically positioned to most effectively navigate the challenges and opportunities that lay ahead.

Administrative Professionals Day

Multipurpose Room in the Student Life Building. The program is a presentation of The University of Akron Wayne College Office of Continuing Education and Workforce Development.

She is a leading authority on helping individuals create confidence and success. She is the author of Believe in the Power of You and Clean Out the Closets of Your Life.

DeLores will be presenting on both topics at the event. Her presentation is interactive with lots of audience participation and participants will walk away with many tips on how to successfully move forward in all facets of their lives.

John Boros of Big Prairie has been named a featured student by The University of Akron Board of Trustees. This honor was presented at the Board’s monthly meeting in Akron on Nov. 30.

John, who is a nursing student, enrolled at The University of Akron Wayne College nearly three years ago. He decided to make the most of his situation following a corporate downsizing that left him unemployed, and began pursuing his lifelong dream of becoming a nurse.

Gordon Holly, Wayne College senior director of student life and enrollment management, assisted John in applying for a Wayne College Educational Stimulus Package, which was a one-time program for recently unemployed members of the community. According to Holly, “John is a determined and hard working student who deserves to be recognized for his accomplishments and amazing attitude.”

In looking at his life, John says there are two guiding principles he has learned: to let go, and to get over past failures. He says his attitude is summed up by the Chinese proverb, “Should you fall seven times, stand up eight.”

John is a post-baccalaureate student who is nearing the end of his nursing studies.

HOLMES COUNTY HIGHER EDUCATION CENTER

“We’ve reached a new high-water mark!” It’s not often that people in Holmes County, home of the perennially flooded Killbuck Creek, are happy to hear that sort of announcement, but when we say it with regard to enrollment at the Wayne College Holmes County Higher Education Center, it’s greeted with significant enthusiasm. Many folks in the area take a keen interest in the progress of the Center. They’ve embraced the idea of this small satellite of The University of Akron Wayne College as “Your Community’s College.”

The truth is, without the support of the local community the opportunity for higher education simply wouldn’t exist in Holmes County. We are very fortunate, not only for a wonderful group of local benefactors, but also for the 16 business, education, and community visionaries who make up the Holmes County Higher Education Center Advisory Group. This panel of volunteers meets with us twice a year to evaluate our progress, offer feedback, and make suggestions on how we can better serve the community. Many of the tweaks and improvements to our menu of offerings can be traced back to input from the advisory group.

This spring semester has proven to be one of the best ever here at the Holmes County Higher Education Center. Total enrollment for our five daytime and four evening classes not only exceeds last spring’s mark, which was nearly double the enrollment of spring 2010, but has also eclipsed our fall enrollment! Of particular note is a very strong embrace of evening courses that meet just one night per week—one of the suggestions of our advisory group.

A number of special events are on the Center’s horizon for spring. We’ll once again be hosting Postsecondary Enrollment Options Program Information Night for area high school students in the 9th, 10th, and 11th grades along with their parents. This year’s event takes place on Thursday, Feb. 9, beginning at 6:30 p.m., and College Goal Sunday will return on Feb. 12, from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. as volunteers from Wayne College, local high schools, Ashland University, and the Holmes County Education Foundation stand at the ready to help students navigate and complete the FAFSA. We’re booked full, once again, for the next ACT test date, which will take place on Feb. 11. Additional national test dates on April 14 and June 9 are expected to fill as well. Events like the ACT and College Goal Sunday are incredibly valuable to us in terms of showing folks what we have here and allowing them to see exactly what we mean when we say that the HCHEC is “Your Community’s College.”

New Employees Wayne Welcomes New Interim Dean

The University of Akron Wayne College is pleased to announce the appointment of its new interim dean, Neil Sapienza. Neil previously served as interim associate dean for fine arts and community engagement in the Buchtel College of Arts and Sciences and director of the School of Dance, Theatre, and Arts Administration at the main campus of The University of Akron.

Neil joined The University of Akron in 1987 as a full-time faculty member in the Community and Technical College, where he developed the commercial photography program and served as director of the Center for Employee Development and Training. He joined the faculty of the Myers School of Art in 1995, where he developed and coordinated the digital imaging area. In 2002, he accepted leadership of the School of Dance, Theatre, and Arts Administration as its director, and recently contributed to the successful initiative to unite the Buchtel College of Arts and Sciences and College of Creative and Professional Arts. He earned a BFA in photography from Ohio University and an MS in photography from Brooks Institute in Santa Barbara. After graduating, Neil worked in the field of corporate photography in the Pittsburg area, specializing in taking pictures of mining equipment working underground.

“Neil brings a breadth and depth of experiences that will serve us well with him in this position,” said Dr. William M. “Mike” Sherman, UA’s senior vice president, provost and COO, the vice provost for professional development, contracts, processes, and reviews including faculty promotion and tenure, faculty professional development, contracts, curriculum development and approval processes; and accreditation for the University as well as discipline-specific accreditation within the colleges. Karen also served as project manager for UA’s electronic curriculum system.

Karen spent 25 years at The Ohio State University in the continuing education department and in the optometry department, where she served as the director of optometry relations.

In addition to her broad range of higher education experience, Karen has a bachelor’s degree in marketing and a master’s degree in business administration. She is currently pursuing a Doctor of Philosophy degree in higher education administration.

Karen spends her spare time with a “very spoiled rotten” beagle named Buckeye. College football fans can probably tell by the beagle’s name that Karen is an Ohio State Buckeye’s football fan, having missed only three OSU home games in 25 years. Karen also enjoys reading medical murder mysteries, pursuing outdoor activities, and volunteering for Edwin Shaw Rehabilitation Institute Challenge Golf.

Alumni Corner

According to Wayne College alumnus David Lehman, two of the key factors that have allowed him to achieve success are access to quality higher education and a supportive family.

“The local feature was huge,” David said of his college experience at Wayne. “The convenience of being local helped build the momentum to complete college.” During his college years, David, who was married and had children, worked during the day and attended college part-time at night.

“My wife allowed me to pursue my goals and finish school,” David said, “but a long drive would have made completing college more difficult.”

David is the president and CEO of Mennonite Mutual Insurance Company, a local company specializing in insurance for churches and farms. David also serves as a co-facilitator of Leadership Orrville, assists nonprofits with strategic planning, is a leadership trainer for the Mennonite church, and works as a presenter and trainer for trade associations, including the National Association of Mutual Insurance Companies.

David started college in 1971, when Kent State was offering classes at a local high school in the area. In 1972, Wayne General and Technical College (now Wayne College) opened, and the classes offered through Kent State were merged into the Wayne curriculum. David took his general education courses at Wayne and then commuted to The University of Akron, where he attended as a part-time student until he graduated with a bachelor’s degree in business finance in 1979.

In David’s 32 years with Mennonite Mutual, he has helped the company grow and focus, with the company’s two primary lines of business increasing by over 20 percent last year. David says his education equipped him with the analytical and management skills necessary to help the company succeed.

David, who lives in Orrville with his wife, says he may not yet be done with his education at Wayne College. He says he “hasn’t crossed the idea of getting an MBA off the list,” and the new Saturday MBA program at Wayne College could be a future possibility.

Paul H. Smucker Memorial Scholarship is a Continuing Legacy

The J.M. Smucker Company has pledged $100,000 over three years to support the existing Paul H. Smucker Memorial Scholarship. The scholarship honors Paul H. Smucker, who was a founder of Wayne College. Paul was chief executive of the J.M. Noble Foundation Encourages Giving to Scholarships

The University of Akron Wayne College will be expanding its Founders Scholarship to create five new $1,000 annual scholarships for Wayne County and Holmes County full-time students. These new scholarships are being made possible thanks to a kind gift of $100,000 from the Noble Foundation. Mr. Don Noble, CEO of Rubbermaid from 1959 until his retirement in 1980, was one of the founders of Wayne College and his son, David Noble, is president of the Noble Foundation. David says providing scholarship assistance to local students is important to the area’s economy.

“The Noble Foundation wants to provide generous support for scholarships at Wayne College for students from Wayne and Holmes counties because it wants college education to be available for students of limited means,” Noble said. “We believe this enhances the economic attractiveness of our area by improving the skills of our citizens.”

For information on creating new scholarships or contributing to existing scholarships at Wayne College, please visit us at http://wayne.uakron.edu/supportus, or contact Kevin Engle at 330-684-8948.
